Once upon a time there lived an old lady pig and her three little pigs.

One day the old lady pig decided that her three little ones were big enough to move away from home and build houses of their own.

And so the old lady pig packed the little pig's suitcases and sent them on their way.

ALL PIGS: WALK TOGETHER

Instead of building one house for all three pigs to live in, the three little pigs agreed that they each wanted their own house. They wished each other good luck and went their separate ways.

An hour later the house was finished.

PIG 1: I knew that wouldn't take long.

I bet you my two brothers are not done building their houses.
